

Editor-in-chief's voice

We are handing over to you the the fourth issue of this year's quarterly CEJU, with a new working editorial panel based on the ScholarOne platform. I hope that the platform is friendly and easy to use and will not cause any difficulties. After temporary problems related to moving the editorial panel to the new platform, the status of the journal has improved, which can be clearly seen by the increase in the number of citations and derived indicators. This is very good news. I think that next year we will be able to go through the evaluations again through the Journal Citation Report base which will introduce CEJU to the group of journals with established importance for urology.

I would like to wish you all a happy, successful New Year and that you may find a moment of peace amongst your loved ones during the upcoming holiday season!
